THE REPUBLICANS

Of the Hoosier State in Convention.

ARRAIGNING THE DEMOCRATS.

Welcoming Blaine Home—General Harrison Present—A Cattle-Laden Vessel Ashore.

HOOSIER REPUBLICANS.

INDIANAPOLIS, August 8.—The Republican State convention was called to order at 10.30 this morning. It was the largest in the history of the State, 1,100 delegates and the hall with a seating capacity of 4,000 was packed with spectators. The interior was decorated with bunting and portraits of Harrison, Norton, Garfield, Lincoln, Grant and others.

Hon. W. H. Calkins, of Indianapolis, was chosen permanent chairman. A committee was appointed to call on General Harrison, and invite him to attend the convention.

The report of the committee on organization was unanimously adopted and the chairman presented ex-Congressman Calkins to the convention. In his address Calkins touched upon the civil service law, declaring that Cleveland used the civil service question like a platform to the car. He used it to get in, but when he got in he saw the light: "Don't stand on the platform," and he didn't. (Vociferous cheers). Referring to the nominees of the Chicago convention, the speaker paid a glowing personal tribute to Morison and then declared: "I need not refer to that other grand name," whereupon the convention burst forth in enthusiastic applause, cheering and waving hats.

A resolution was offered heartily congratulating Blaine on his safe return home but objection being made to a suspension of the rules, the resolution was referred to the committee on resolutions.

Chairman Calkins, of the committee on resolutions, offered a resolution paying a high tribute to General Sheridan, which was adopted by a rising vote.

The platform was then read. It declares, with grateful pride, that the Republicans of Indiana endorse and ratify the action of the national convention; affirming allegiance to the principles and policy of the Republican party. We pledge to the nominees for President and Vice-President a united and successful support. The electoral vote of Indiana will be given for Harrison and Morton. In commemorating Benjamin Harrison, we repeat the words in which the State presented him as a candidate for nomination: "A Republican without equivocation, always in the forefront of any contest, devoted to the principles of the party, with which he has been identified since its organization; prominent and zealous in all its campaigns, wise and trusted in councils, serving with honorable distinction in the military and civil service of the Government; of great abilities, a long and distinguished public life, of high character and unblemished reputation."

Then follows a severe arraignment of the Democratic party in Indiana, charging conspiracy, forgery of returns, gerrymandering, fraud in the election of United States senators, corruption in the conduct of public institutions. It contains a labor plank demanding laws against imported service labor, against the employment of children in factories and in mines, for safeguards in hazardous occupations, arbitration between capital and labor, etc., on the liquor question it declares for local option; favors liberal pensions to ex-soldiers and sailors, and declares that railroads and other public corporations, should be put under legislative control. The platform was unanimously adopted.

The names of Ex-Governor Porter, Lieutenant-Governor Robertson and Hon. William Calkins were placed before the convention for governor.

A resolution was unanimously adopted in the midst of great enthusiasm, welcoming James G. Blaine, on his arrival home, declaring the enthusiastic honors now being paid him were properly awarded to a public servant who had always and under all circumstances been conspicuous as an American.

At this juncture General Harrison's presence was announced, and the convention went wild for several minutes. General Harrison, in an address, paid a glowing tribute to the memory of General Sheridan, and spoke of Blaine as "that great Republican and that great American, now returning to his home." He declared "we shall not be disappointed, I hope, in hearing his powerful voice in Indiana before the end of the campaign."

Nominations for governor then followed, as above given. Several delegates seconded Governor Porter's nomination, and his nomination by acclamation seemed imminent when recess was taken.

After recess the names of Congressman George W. Steele, Rev. Ira J. Chase, and General A. P. Hovey, were proposed to the convention for the governorship, and the name of Governor Porter was withdrawn.

General Hovey was nominated on the first ballot. Irvin J. Chase was nominated for Lieutenant Governor by acclamation.

Blaine.

New York, August 8.—Several tugs and steamers with delegations on board and steamers lying at the docks are waiting for news that the steamer with Blaine on board has been sighted off Fire Island, when they will go down the bay to meet him. They carry many floral offerings and several orators.

Ashore in a Fog.

LONDON, August 8.—A dense fog prevails in the English Channel. The steamer City of Hamburg, bound for London, laden with cattle, went ashore near the starting point last evening. Fifteen persons landed at Salcombe, and a boat containing the others is missing.
